How to Become Data-Driven

A complete picture of each customer incorporates all data – structured, unstructured, internal, external – and provides new perspectives to engage effectively.

- Create context about customers – Relate and connect data for better customer context so you can create hyper-targeted segments, personalized interactions, and reveal undiscovered insights.
- Manage consent – Turn privacy and protection into a customer experience opportunity by associating consent data and policies with specific individuals and channels.
- Fix and master customer data – Streamline customer onboarding processes, M&A activity, compliance initiatives and operational reporting with a single version of the truth.
- Scale with AI and Machine Learning – Mimic human decisions and train algorithms that automate how customer records are matched to accelerate golden record creation and scale to billions of records.
