- Capture and understand critical events to improve operational decision making and rapid response
- Replace complex point-to-point data integrations with a simplified, managed, and governed data architecture

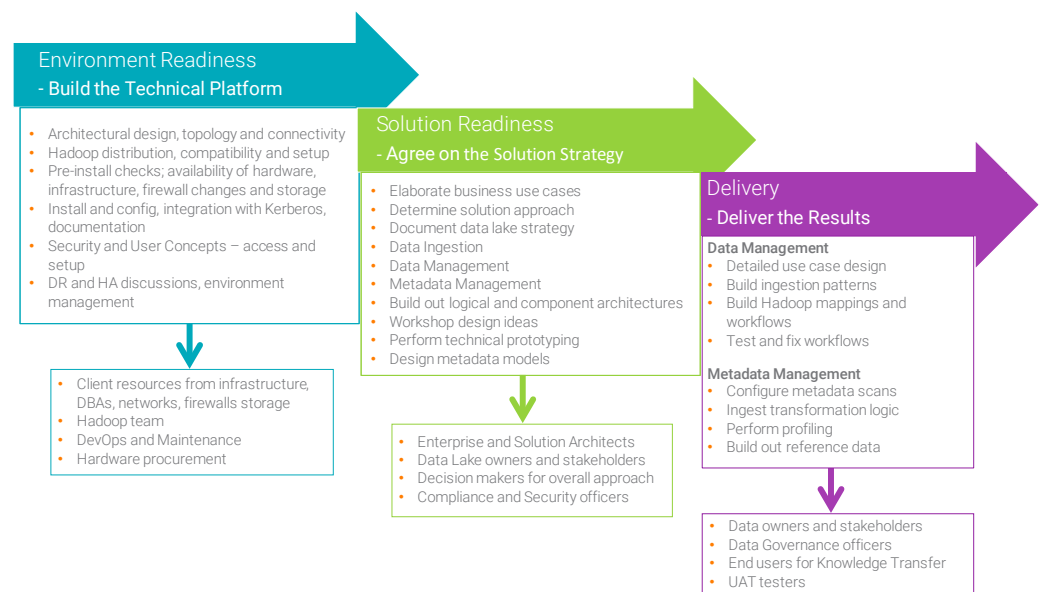

Typical duration

- 12 weeks

Big data is the underpinning of how companies are revolutionizing customer engagement, driving productivity and fueling innovation. It has emerged as a megatrend that is continuing to gain attention. Informatica provides integrated data management solutions to quickly and holistically integrate, govern, and secure big data for your business.

With this Express offering the Informatica Professional Services team will assist you in reviewing your big data challenges to ensure that current technology features are matched to meet your big data requirements.

Our experienced Big Data consultants will review your business drivers and use cases, aligning on a specific scope to comprise a Phase One pilot. We will help you drive your initial work plan by designing the solution strategy, installing and configuring a technical platform, and building out the associated work product. The primary goal is to deliver a production-ready Phase One pilot.
